The Virgin Furry

Bright colors on character because its the only way people will pay attention to him
(Still makes fun of "cringy" OCs)
Enjoys furry drama because its the only form of human contact he can have

Thinks his character looks "original", but ends up looking generic
Embarrassed about the entirety of the fandom, still participates in it

Unathletic couch potato body visible through lumpy fursuit

Denies being a furry, says his characters are "anthro"

Extremely expensive fursuit, saved up months to commission it, still looks hideous

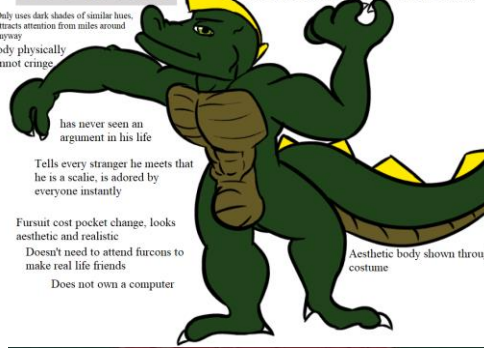

Attends furcons in order to make furry friends outside of the Internet
Doesn't talk with people at the con because of social awkwardness

The Chad Scalie

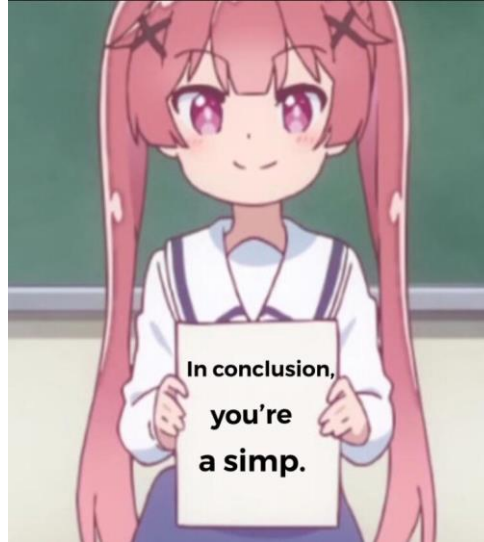

Only uses dark shades of similar lines, attracts attention from males around anyway
Body physically cannot cringe has never seen an argument in his life

Tells every stranger he meets that he is a scalie, is adored by everyone instantly

Fursuit cost pocket change, looks aesthetic and realistic
Doesn't need to attend furcons to make real life friends
Does not own a computer

Aesthetic body shown through costume
